Sometimes a piece of music or a breathtaking view can send shivers up and down our spine and we are touched. It seems that more than just our body is affected by those pleasures and feels nourished. There is body, mind and soul that make us humans, which means any of those parts need food, attention, and can suffer. Focusing on where it hurts can be a good start when dealing with a health issue, although addressing it holistically proves to be more beneficial - science has shown by now that we function as a system.

With Jutta Geissler, long time Healthworks practitioner, we meet a specialist in holistic health care. She has been offering Reiki and Spiritual Healing for many years. As a qualified physiotherapist in Germany, specialising in treating brain injured children and newborn, Jutta evolved into offering Spiritual Healing and Reiki for adults. She feels the benefits of healing can be felt on many levels and the effects are nurturing and profound. Spiritual healing is a natural energy therapy and complements conventional medicine by treating the whole person – mind, body and spirit. Spiritual healers and Reiki practitioners act as a conduit for healing energy, which relaxes the body, releases stress and tension and, significantly, stimulates self-healing. In 2000 Jutta became a Usui Reiki Master in 2000, a Japanese form of healing that, in a similar way, channels natural healing energy. Both practices involve the laying on of hands, on and off the body. Jutta is a member of the NFSH/Healing and lives in Forres with her husband and son.

Under the roof of the Healthworks Centre a team of experienced independent practitioners is dedicated to provide an extensive range of complementary and alternative health care therapies. Balancing body, mind and soul as a whole is the focus of attention there, sometimes with guidance, a gentle touch, a listening ear, or a specific form of therapy. Whatever it needs to promote healing and restore health, the practitioners group at Healthworks in Forres is offering excellent treatment options, having you and your soul at heart.
